Consider the Convenience of Advance Pay Electric Service

Tri-State EMC's Advance Pay Electric Service Program allows our members to conveniently purchase electricity upfront. You select the amount you want to purchase. When your account reaches a low balance threshold, you will receive an alert. If you do not make a payment to replenish your account and your funds are depleted, your meter is automatically disconnected.

This Advance Pay Electric Service Program is available to new and existing members. Members opting into the service will need to complete a member application, as well as pay a $5 membership fee, $20 service fee and $50 to establish a minimum initial credit balance for daily electricity use. Existing members also have the option to convert their account to the Advance Pay Electric Service Program.

Once you enroll in the program, you can make payments at your convenience. You may make payments at our office during business hours, or payments are also accepted 24 hours a day by Visa, Mastercard, Discover and e-check online at www.tsemc.net. You can also pay by telephone through our automated system at (706) 492-3251.

Advance Pay Electric Service Program account charges will be calculated on a daily basis, with daily adjustments of all charges and fees deducted from the Advance Pay Electric Service Program account balance. Accounts will be reconciled at the end of each month.

Members with Advance Pay Electric Service Program accounts do not receive monthly paper statements or monthly e-bills. Daily account history will be available by telephone or at www.myusage.com.

Low balance and disconnect notices will be provided via automated messages from Tri-State EMC. These are sent out by phone call, text message and/or email.

If you are interested in our Advance Pay Electric Service Program, please contact our office at (706) 492-3251 for details.

It's Your Money, and Every Kilowatt Counts

www.myusage.com

Have you ever been surprised when your electric bill comes in the mail? You ask, "How in the world could I have used that much electricity?" Now there is a way to keep close tabs on how much electricity you use each day.

Myusage.com is a program that will help you become more aware of the energy you consume. Participants report using less electricity by monitoring it daily, rather than waiting to see energy use on a monthly bill.

It's so simple. Just as you watch the gas gauge in your car, now you can watch how much electricity you use. When you sign up, you can view your daily use online, receive use alerts by email and customize alerts to let you know when consumption goes over the limits you set.

You can sign up online now with your Tri-State EMC account number and meter number, which is found on your electric bill by going to www.myusage.com.
